Mayor's Letter

Thank you to everyone who participated in some way to make our annual fall Arts & Crafts Show a success. A special thank you, of course, to Tammy Hassett, Adam Linn, all our town staff, and the many volunteers who generously donated their time. I received numerous compliments from vendors about how well the show was run and how much they enjoyed attending. This is attributable to the efforts of all of you.

October is a very busy month in Occoquan for events. We have a couple of ribbon-cuttings, including for the Mill House Museum & (now) Visitor Center on October 3, and for Thai Ghang Wong on October 19. October 10 is the last Trivia Night in River Mill Park of the season and the theme will be "Trivia Bingo." We will kick off our Halloween events on Friday, October 24, with our popular Murder Mystery event in River Mill Park, featuring the 80s theme, "Murder on Prom Night." The next day at 10:00 a.m. we will host our annual Halloween Costume Parade and Contest, followed that evening by the movie, Hocus Pocus, in River Mill Park at 7:00. There are, as you can, see, many enjoyable activities coming up in town this month to go with all that our shops, restaurants, and other businesses have to offer.

Some residents have also generously donated their time to serve on town boards and I want to take a moment to thank them directly. Don Wood is joining the Board of Zoning Appeals and both Samantha Sparks and Margaret Pepin have been appointed to the Planning Commission. Thank you to the three of you for giving your time in service to our community. Last, I also want to take a moment to ask all of you to join me in thanking Matt Whitmoyer for his service to the town and wishing him the best. Matt is moving to Pennsylvania and the fall Arts & Crafts Show was his last weekend with us. At the same time, we welcome a new staff member, Megan Lubash, and are grateful she has chosen to join us.

As always, thank you for your continued support and please do not hesitate to contact me at eporta@occoquanva.gov with any comments, questions, or concerns.
